I. Executive Summary

MED-Project LLC ("MED-Project") operates a Product Stewardship Plan for Unwanted Medicine from Households ("Plan") in the City and County of San Francisco, California ("Jurisdiction") under the San Francisco Safe Drug Disposal Stewardship Ordinance, Chapter 22, Division 1, Sections 2200-2219 ("Ordinance") and the San Francisco Department of the Environment ("Department") Regulation #SFE-16-01-SDDSO ("Regulation"). This 2020 City and County of San Francisco Annual Report ("Report") describes the activities of MED-Project between January 1, 2020, and December 31, 2020 (the "Reporting Period") in compliance with Ordinance Section 2209. All capitalized terminology not defined in this Report is derived from the approved Plan dated November 1, 2018.

Notifications in the Reporting Period

MED-Project submitted more than six notices unrelated to the COVID-19 pandemic to the Department in 2020. These notices include:

- A notice of temporary closure of a disposal facility was sent on October 4, 2019, informing the Jurisdiction of the alternative disposal facilities to be used during a disposal facility maintenance closure. On March 2, 2020, MED-Project sent notice of the resumption of operations at the disposal facility, and that MED-Project was again disposing of "Unwanted Medicine" (as defined in Plan Section IV) at the disposal facility.
- On March 14, 2020, MED-Project sent the Department a request to expand collection methods available to Kiosk Drop-Off Site Hosts and modify the Vendor, Transporter, and Disposal Facility information in the Plan dated November 1, 2018. On July 15, 2020, MED-Project notified the Department of the addition of transfer facilities to the Plan dated November 1, 2018. On July 29, 2020, the Department conditionally approved MED-Project's requests.
- On June 5, 2019, the Department approved the Plan dated November 1, 2018, subject to conditions listed in the June 5, 2019 approval letter. Among those conditions was that MED-Project provide a minimum of 50 copies of the tri-fold flyer and 25 copies in each Required Language within 60 days of provision of a list by the Director. In February and March, 2020, MED-Project fulfilled this request by sending flyers to 705 sites in the Jurisdiction. In a July 29, 2020 Notice of Determination letter, the Department restated the condition to occur annually by March 1.
- MED-Project notified the Department on July 20, 2020, that MED-Project's Vendor would temporarily engage a subcontractor to service consumer Unwanted Medicine kiosks at MED-Project Kiosk Drop-Off Sites from mid-July through August 2020.
- On July 28, 2020, the Department requested additional information for the approval of additional disposal facilities included in the March 14 and July 15, 2020, change requests. On August 11, 2020, and March 9, 2021, MED-Project responded to the requests from the Department. A decision from the Department is pending as of submittal of this Report.
- An additional condition of approval was that MED-Project submit, within 30 days of posting of the biennial survey, a proposal to undertake additional outreach activities to raise public awareness should the biennial survey report less than 50% awareness. MED-Project fulfilled the condition and executed the media plan as required by the July 29, 2020 Notice of Determination.
- On July 30, 2020, MED-Project submitted a notice of temporary closure to a disposal facility, informing the Jurisdiction that an alternative treatment facility would be used during the closure. On September 17, 2020, MED-Project sent notice that operations at the disposal facility had resumed August 23, 2020, and that MED-Project was again disposing of Unwanted Medicine at the disposal facility.

- On November 23, 2020, MED-Project notified the Department that an additional transporter was being added to the Plan.

COVID-19 Pandemic Response Notifications

MED-Project sent the Jurisdiction an initial COVID-19 pandemic response notification March 17, 2020, and a second COVID-19 pandemic response notification with additional information on March 26, 2020. On April 15, 2020, MED-Project provided a third COVID-19 pandemic response notification, including then-current information on restricted access to sites. On July 16, 2020, MED-Project provided a fourth COVID-19 pandemic response notification, including then-current information on restricted access to sites. On November 29, 2020, MED-Project submitted a fifth COVID-19 pandemic response notification, which indicated that only two Kiosk Drop-Off Sites and 73 Mail-Back Distribution Locations remained restricted. See Appendix Q: Table 16; Access Restrictions, for details on access statuses during the Reporting Period.

Reporting Period Operations Overview

During 2020, priority was given to establishing Kiosk Drop-Off Sites throughout the Jurisdiction, and performing outreach to eligible pharmacies, hospitals, clinics with on-site pharmacies, and Law Enforcement Agencies ("LEAs") throughout the Jurisdiction. As a result of these efforts, MED-Project's Program collected and disposed of Unwanted Medicine from 48 kiosks at 47 Kiosk Drop-Off Sites and 140 Mail-Back Distribution Locations.

Kiosks were installed in pharmacies and hospital/clinics with an on-site pharmacy that meet all local, state, and federal requirements and that executed agreements with MED-Project. In addition, outreach and educational materials, including signage and/or brochures, were distributed to all newly activated Kiosk Drop-Off Sites.

MED-Project provided disposal instructions for Kiosk Drop-Off Sites and Mail-Back Services to Residents and continued to communicate with Kiosk Drop-Off Site Hosts, distributing outreach materials upon request, reviewing procedures as needed, and improving overall Program design.

As outlined in the approved Plan, the ultimate goal of the Program is to provide Residents with convenient, safe, and accessible methods to dispose of Unwanted Medicine. MED-Project anticipates a steady increase in Kiosk Drop-Off Sites through 2021 as a result of ongoing outreach and Program activities, especially if there is increased retail chain pharmacy participation in the Program.

The following sections of the Report respond to specific reporting requirements in Ordinance Section 2209. Each section of the Report restates the corresponding Ordinance requirement and provides the required information.

A. Public Education Activities

MED-Project provided disposal instructions for Kiosk Drop-Off Sites and Mail-Back Services during the Reporting Period. In addition, MED-Project maintained a website and toll-free number to provide information pertaining to MED-Project disposal options and outreach materials. The MED-Project Website, toll-free telephone number, and outreach materials, such as posters and brochures, were available in the Required Languages, including English, Spanish, Chinese, Russian, and Tagalog (Filipino). See Appendix H for examples of brochures and posters. Appendix I provides brochure and poster distribution information.

The MED-Project Website lists all Kiosk Drop-Off Sites and Mail-Back Distribution Locations. MED-Project Website information and statistics are provided in Appendices J and K, respectively.

B. Outreach Activities

MED-Project conducted the following outreach activities during the Reporting Period: provided print, digital, radio, and television campaigns; distributed signage and brochures; posted information on social media sites; and sent email blasts. A list of the social media and email outreach promotion activities is provided in Appendix L.

During the Reporting Period, MED-Project met the goal of continued targeted media for a combined target reach percent of 75% at a 3+ frequency for the duration of one month, at least three times per year. The outreach activities achieved a combined reach percent of 89%, 78%, and 89% at a 3+ frequency respectively, each for a duration of 5-weeks and were conducted through a variety of media channels.

MED-Project performed the following activities to achieve the goals:

1. Cross Media Campaign – January/February 2020 (TV, Radio, Digital) (7.3 frequency / 5 weeks)
2. Cross Media Campaign – June/July 2020 (TV, Radio, Digital) (8.2 frequency / 5 weeks)
3. Cross Media Campaign – November/December 2020 (TV, Radio, Digital) (5.7 frequency / 5 weeks)

MED-Project also had the following additional activities:

- Print (newspaper: SF Examiner) – May 2020 (4.0 frequency / 1 month)
- Print (newspaper: SF Examiner) – September/October 2020 (4.0 frequency / 1 month)
- Print (newspaper: El Reportero) – September/October 2020 (4.0 frequency / 1 month)
- Print (newspaper: Sing Tao) – September/October 2020 (4.0 frequency / 1 month)

The Target Rating Points calculated for the Reporting Period are 660.3 for digital media, 941.6 for television, 193.7 for radio, and 176.4 for print.

See Appendix M; Media Outreach Summary.

C. Proof of Medium

MED-Project offers the following documents as “proof” to support the outreach efforts:

- Example of email blast – MED-Project (December 2020).
- Example of social media posting (December 2020).
- Examples of published print advertisements (May, September, November 2020).
- List of static publishers (host sites) for digital campaign (February, June, November 2020).
- Broadcast television schedule log (February, June, November 2020).

- List of radio campaign placement and spot ads (February, June, November 2020).

See Appendix N; Electronic and Media Advertisement Proof of Performance Examples.

D. Evaluation Activities

Per the current approved Plan, MED-Project conducted a biennial survey of Residents, pharmacists, veterinarians, and health care professionals in the Jurisdiction who interact with Residents on use of Covered Drugs. The biennial survey was conducted from January to February 2020. MED-Project posted the results of the 2020 survey to the Website on May 22, 2020. Forty-four percent of Residents surveyed remembered having been exposed to messaging in 2020 about safe storage and disposal of unwanted and/or expired medicines. Additionally, of those Residents surveyed, 37% reported having used Kiosk Drop-Off Site locations, Mail-Back Services, or take-back events to dispose of expired and/or unwanted medicines in the past year. Of this group, 81% reported using drop-off locations. Eighty-seven percent of Residents who had used medicine disposal programs believed the medicine disposal Program was easy to use, and 84% of the same group of Residents had found it convenient. MED-Project plans to continue targeted media for a combined target reach of 75% at a 3+ frequency for a duration of one month at least three times per year throughout 2021 and into early 2022 to foster increased Resident Program awareness.

VIII. Packaging Recycling

Ordinance Sec. 2209 (a)(10): "A description of how collected packaging was recycled to the extent feasible, including the recycling facility or facilities used."

As described in the Plan, while drug packaging is expected to constitute a significant amount of the waste incinerated under the Program, MED-Project has concluded that separation of inner and/or outer packaging from Unwanted Medicine and/or recycling of packaging would raise three significant concerns:

1. Separating and recycling drug packaging could result in the disclosure of confidential patient information appearing on prescription drug packaging;
2. Separating and recycling drug packaging could increase the potential for releases and leakage of Unwanted Medicine; and
3. Separating and recycling drug packaging could increase diversion risk by adding additional steps to the collection process and, because drug packaging is often used in drug counterfeiting, the drug packaging could be a diversion target itself.

For these reasons, the Program does not provide for the separation and recycling of packaging from Unwanted Medicine.

MED-Project education and outreach materials instruct Residents to return Unwanted Medicine at a Kiosk Drop-Off Site, via Mail-Back Services, or at a Take-Back Event, in its original container or in a sealed bag. These materials encourage Residents who transfer their Unwanted Medicine in a sealed bag to recycle all remaining packaging.

IX. Program Goals

Ordinance Sec. 2209 (a)(11): "A summary of the Stewardship Plan's goals, the degree of success in meeting those goals in the past year, and, if any goals have not been met, what effort will be made to achieve the goals in the next year."

A. Collection Goals

MED-Project strove to meet the Service Convenience Goals in Ordinance Section 2205(b)(1) during the Reporting Period through a combination of established Kiosk Drop-Off Sites and Mail-Back Distribution Locations as detailed in Appendix O; Kiosk Drop-Off Site and Mail-Back Distribution Location Reporting Period Results. Figure 1 provides a visual representation of how MED-Project satisfied the Service Convenience Goals during the Reporting Period.

Additionally, MED-Project exceeded the 2019 anticipated collection goal of approximately 19,800 pounds of Unwanted Medicine from Kiosk Drop-Off Sites in 2020. Due to the variability caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, MED-Project is not adjusting collection goals at this time. MED-Project continues to strive to meet the long-term goals and satisfy the Service Convenience Goals through the establishment of Kiosk Drop-Off Sites by pursuing increased participation by retail chain pharmacies throughout the Jurisdiction. MED-Project noticed a general downward trend in unwanted medicine collection during the initial stage of the COVID-19 Pandemic. The general downward trend appears to have returned to pre-COVID-19 pandemic levels. MED-Project anticipates the average pounds per Kiosk Drop-Off Site to increase in 2021 with increasing public awareness of the Program. Refer to Section III of this Report for specific collection information.

B. Education and Public Outreach Goals

MED-Project met the Plan's short-term goals, including previously implementing Mail-Back Services via the Call Center and MED-Project Website. MED-Project utilized data from 2017 to establish baseline education and outreach goals for the Reporting Period and future Reporting Periods. In 2020, there were no Take-Back Events, which resulted in no press advisories. See Appendix P; Baseline Data Summary. During 2017, no messages were left by Residents, resulting in no messages returned. During 2018, the Call Center was transitioned to a staffed 24/7/365 service, and, since then, all calls are answered with no messages left by Residents.

MED-Project will evaluate media and public outreach as well as collect feedback by survey in order to make adjustments and improvements to the Program. Additionally, MED-Project may revise and/or add communications materials based on changes to the Plan.

C. Collector Outreach

MED-Project continued collector outreach by issuing letters to all nonparticipating or new retail pharmacies on January 25, 2020. Phone calls were made and emails sent to eligible sites that did not respond to the letter. Eligible nonparticipating or new retail pharmacies were contacted until either the site began participating in the Program, or the site indicated they no longer wanted to be considered for participation.

X. Program Costs

Ordinance Sec. 2209 (a)(12): "The total expenditures of the Stewardship Plan during the reporting period."

The total Program cost for the Reporting Period was $1,710,539.87.

Safety and Security Report

Event: Unwanted Medicine Box and Liner Shipping Discrepancy

Date: November 12, 2020

Description: MED-Project LLC ("MED-Project") was informed by Vendor of an apparent shipping discrepancy for an Unwanted Medicine box and liner that originated from the City and County of San Francisco. Vendor reported that the shipment originated from a host site on November 12, 2020. The Carrier reported to Vendor that the shipment was no longer tracking in its system. Vendor previously reported that the Carrier has policies and procedures for managing packages containing pharmaceuticals that it cannot deliver or return, including destruction at a permitted medical waste incinerator. For example, these procedures may apply if the shipping container label was damaged and could no longer be tracked to a shipping destination. MED-Project worked with Vendor to investigate the event. No further information is available other than the status provided by Vendor. MED-Project notified the host site of the apparent shipping discrepancy, including information on host site potential reporting obligations under the Drug Enforcement Administration regulations.

Corrective Action Taken: MED-Project requested that Vendor provide a detailed report of its investigation and findings related to both the box and liner. MED-Project requested that Vendor keep MED-Project apprised of: (1) any other outcomes from investigations into the apparent discrepancies; (2) any reports Vendor makes regarding these apparent discrepancies to law enforcement or government agencies; (3) any law enforcement or government agency involvement with these apparent discrepancies; (4) any legal proceedings involving these apparent discrepancies; and (5) any changes in policy or procedure that Vendor has or is planning to make as a result of these apparent discrepancies Что следует делать с ненужными вам лекарственными средствами или лекарствами с истекшим сроком годности?

Лекарства помогают лечить болезни, контролировать хронические заболевания и улучшать здоровье и благополучие миллионов американцев. Важно, чтобы пациенты принимали лекарства в соответствии с предписанием своего лечащего врача и инструкциями, указанными на этикетке или упаковке. Также важно хранить лекарства в надежном месте, чтобы предотвратить их случайное проглатывание или использование не по назначению другими лицами, особенно детьми.

Если у вас есть просроченные или ненужные лекарства, правила утилизации просты. Для сохранения конфиденциальности личной информации пациентам рекомендуется удалить всю личную информацию с этикеток или упаковок, прежде чем утилизировать их.

ITAPON NANG LIGTAS ANG MGA NAG-EXPIRE NA O HINDI NA GINAGAMIT NA GAMOT

May ilang paraan para itapon ang mga nag-expire na o hindi na ginagamit na gamot.

Para sa higit pang impormasyon tungkol sa programang MED-Project, pumunta sa www.med-project.org o tumawag sa 1 (844) MED-PROJECT o 1 (844) 633-7765 (TTY: 711)

Ano ang dapat mong gawin sa mga hindi na ginagamit o nag-expire nang gamot?

Tumutulong ang mga gamot sa paglunas sa mga sakit, pamamahala ng mga pabalik-balik na kondisyon, at pagpapabuti ng kalusugan at kapakanan para sa milyun-milyong Amerikano. Napakahalagang inumin ng mga pasyente ang kanilang mga gamot ayon sa inireseta ng kanilang provider ng pangangalagang pangkalusugan at ayon sa nakasaad sa label o packaging. Mahalaga rin na tyaking itago ang mga gamot nang ligtas para maiwasan ang di-sadyang pagkakainom o maling paggamit ng ibang tao, lalo na ng mga bata.

Kung mayroon kang mga nag-expire na o hindi na ginagamit na gamot, madali lang ang wastong pagtatapon sa mga ito. Para maprotektahan ang privacy mo, pinapaalala sa mga pasyente na alisin ang lahat ng personal na mapagkikilanlan na impormasyon sa mga etiketa o packaging ng gamot bago itapon ang mga hindi na ginagamit na gamot.

Ang materyal na ito ay ibinigay bilang pagsunod sa batas at hindi sumasalamin sa mga pananaw ng MED-Project o ng Mga Producer na kasali sa Plano ng Pangangasiwa ng Produkto ng MED-Project.

Huwag i-flush ang mga gamot sa inidoro. Ipinagbabawal sa San Francisco ang pagtatapon ng mga gamot sa drain o inidoro.

LOCAL NEWS FOR SAN FRANCISCO

Bay Area transit's financial future hinges on $780M emergency aid vote

By Joe Fitzgerald Rodriguez
S.F. Examiner Staff Writer

Bay Area transit agencies may get a needed shot in the arm next week, as a regional body is set to approve $780 million in emergency funding.

Those federal funds are the first planned disbursement of the Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security Act approved by Congress last month.

The Metropolitan Transportation Commission and more than a dozen agencies have seemingly concluded hashing out who gets what portion of that regional $1.3 billion pie, or at least, the first half of it. The aid is much needed as the COVID-19 pandemic has caused ridership — and revenue — to plummet at transit agencies across the region.

The MTC is set to vote Wednesday, April 22 on the $780 million federal aid package's allocation. Additional funding will be approved later this year, according to MTC.

"House Speaker Nancy Pelosi deserves enormous thanks for her leadership in ensuring that Congress included support for public transit in the CARES Act," MTC Chair and Alameda County Supervisor Scott Hagarty said in a statement. "These extraordinary times have seen extraordinary cooperation and the Bay Area's transit operators have come together with MTC to meet the moment."

The lion's share of the stimulus funding would fill the coffers of San Francisco's Muni service, BART, Caltrain, Alameda Contra Costa Transit, and the Santa Clara Valley Transportation Authority, among 24 total Bay Area transit agencies.

BART is set to receive the highest amount out of any transit agency in the first round of stimulus funds, with $251 million slotted for it. Muni is the next-largest beneficiary of stimulus funds at $197 million. The next highest-funded transit agency is AC Transit, with $80 million allotted.

BART declined to comment directly on the funding before the MTC takes its vote. SFMTA thanked House Speaker Nancy Pelosi for her advocacy to obtain needed transit stimulus. Publicly, SFMTA leadership has said the agency is in dire financial straits.

"This is the thing that keeps me up late at night every night. Figuring out how do we get through how the health crisis is turning into an unprecedented financial crisis for our agency," Jeffrey Tumlin, head of the San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency, said in an online budget town hall on April 2.

He said SFMTA's priority is to maintain its workforce so they can rebound when needed. The agency is looking to trim its budget any way it can.

Tumlin said SFMTA will see a $66 million operating budget deficit in its next fiscal year, which starts in July, if measures are not taken to shore up the budget. An operating budget differs from a capital budget, in that it covers everyday costs of running an agency, like salaries, whereas capital budgets are for infrastructure improvement costs, like construction. SFMTA's capital budget faces a $22 billion need through 2045.

Muni has already cut service across The City, responding to the large number of drivers who have taken leave from the agency amid the COVID-19 pandemic. Only 17 Muni routes out of 89 are operating in San Francisco right now.

When asked how SFMTA would spend stimulus funding, Tumlin said SFMTA would lose about $200 million in the remaining months of this fiscal year, through June, and would use a "big portion" of it to prevent laying off staff, including operators. "We're probably going to be very rare among transit agencies without layoffs," Tumlin said.

SFMTA is partially funded by San Francisco's general fund, in addition to the fares riders pay every day. But other transit agencies that depend primarily on farebox revenues "are going to have to make deeper cuts," Tumlin said.

One local transit agency that mostly depends on farebox revenue is BART.

The agency is losing $9 million weekly, and will end its current fiscal column's five years.

Perhaps the most selfish regret I have concerns the late Mayor Ed Lee. One of my very first stories for the San Francisco Examiner covered a little-noticed report from the Fair Political Practices Commission, which recounted an interview with a man trying to blow the whistle on a scheme to illegally bundle donations to Lee's mayoral campaign. Many of my early columns critiqued Lee's policies, voraciously. I was far more full-throated in my early columns, before I learned to choose my fights a little more wisely, and that a little spice goes a long way.

I remember keenly the first time Lee let me into his actual office, perhaps a full three years after my first columns critiquing him.

"I must be crazy to talk to you," he told me, sitting at his desk.

But he wasn't — developing a better back-and-forth with Lee informed my writing, and resulted in more give-and-take. I still critiqued him, often, but when he got it right, I highlighted that, too.

It's a shame Mayor London Breed hasn't reached that same equilibrium with me yet. It strikes me as hilarious that on election night, just this past March, as we both stood at state Sen. Scott Wiener's election party, she yelled at me to "get out!" and "go join" an election party for the people she believed I have more affiliation with, which she said were San Francisco progressives.

I have my own political ideas, yes, and arguing for them is part of my role as an opinion columnist. But the best advice I ever got from a fellow journalist was to develop an internal set of principles and to apply them evenly.

Joe Fitzgerald Rodriguez interviews the late Mayor Ed Lee on Geary Boulevard about his email retention policy at the site of a fatal traffic collision in March, 2015.

I exercised those principles the very next morning after Breed's accusations, penning a scathing column about progressive strategist Jim Stearns' bar brawl with a young campaign worker at state Senate candidate Jackie Fielder's election night party. Stearns is a political heavyweight (metaphorically speaking, I had previously thought) responsible for (electorally) toppling many of Breed's moderate allies.

It is an irony of ironies that one event succeeded the other. Isn't life fascinating?

Back to my Lee regret. I always imagined when my columns were done, years after his mayorship, I could sit down for a beer with him at Glen Park Station, a bar in his neighborhood, and he might explain the thinking behind some of those decisions I skewered him for. I thought, maybe, perhaps naively, that one day I would finally hear the rationales he wouldn't air publicly.

Sadly, I never will.

I still remember my editor waking me up with a 2 a.m. call, one December morning, and me driving my goofy little blue Volkswagen New Beetle like a bat-out-of-hell to San Francisco General Hospital to confirm Lee's death. I have never driven so fast in my life. The ashen look on now-Mayor London Breed's face will forever be etched in my memory.

Memories like that permeated my time reporting for the Examiner. I'll never, ever forget the horrified, howling screams of a mother whose 12-year-old son was struck and killed by a Muni train on San Jose and Lakeview avenues. She grabbed at the Muni train from its underside, trying to pull it off him, as if she could summon every ounce of love into the strength to lift tons.

It was the first time I wrote a story about a traffic death at an intersection where Muni had

San Francisco bike shops are booming during the pandemic

By Corey Browning
Special to S.F. Examiner

With gyms shuttered because of the global pandemic, stress slowed and weather warming, San Franciscans have turned en masse to cycling amid The City shutdown.

And as popular bike routes swarm with cyclists, bike shops are having a hard time keeping up with the demand.

"We're basically selling bikes faster than we can build them," said Bradley Woehl standing outside American Cyclery, a bike shop in the Haight-Ashbury he's owned for 25 years.

After a three-month closure for seismic retrofitting earlier this year, he said he almost went out of business — but now sales are better than ever.

"Later today there will be a line around the corner," he said. "It's a good problem to have, we're appreciative to have the demand. We've lived through world wars, pandemics, economic booms and busts, and

May is National Bicycle Month, and another month of the shelter-in-place order is expected to bring out plenty of riders on city streets and paths.

Many other shops report similar surges.

Wiggle Bicycles in the Lower Haight is experiencing the most business it's seen since opening in 2013, according to co-owner Garret Peters. Mike's Bikes, a shop with 12 locations, 10 of which are in the Bay Area, has been overwhelmed with sales.

"You have parents trying to get their kids out, you have active cyclists with more time to ride, and then you have other active folks who are seeking some sort of exercise," said Matt Adams, a co-owner of Mike's Bikes.

Bike shops were added to the state's list of essential businesses shortly after the shutdown was initiated in recognition of those who use bikes for essential travel. Though some shops opted to close, many have stayed open with reduced hours and altered services to allow for safety precautions.

And now booming sales and supply chain delays have sparked concern that bikes in some popular categories might run out completely. Mike's Bikes and other shops report the biggest sales spikes in children's bikes and "neighborhood bikes" designed for the casual rider.

Though Adams says the vendors he works with have been able to keep up with demand so far, there is fear for later in the summer.

"Biding a bike for exercise, for transportation, for mental health, it's one of the few things that you're allowed to do right now," he said. "You can bike, you can hike, that's about it."

Adding to the allure, The City recently closed several popular bike routes to cars completely to allow cyclists, joggers and walkers more room to socially distance.

Thoroughfares in Golden Gate Park and John McLaren Park, Twin Peaks Boulevard and a large portion of the Great Highway are closed to cars. The Presidio has also closed a 4.5 mile loop within the park to cars on weekends.

Though these closures, part of The City's slow streets program, are slated to reopen when the shutdown ends, some, like the San Francisco Bicycle Coalition are hoping to keep certain roads closed permanently.

"While we know this treatment is specific to helping us flatten the curve and practice safe social distancing, we believe that Slow Streets is a tool that broadly has a life beyond the public health order," Melissa Lewis, the coalition's spokesperson stated in an email.

The coalition is also pushing for more temporary closures in denser neighborhoods like the Tenderloin and SoMa.

A list of recommended safety precautions for folks biking amid the pandemic can be found on the coalition's website.

Despite CARES Act funding, Caltrain faces 'existential crisis'

By Isabella Jibilian
Special to S.F. Examiner

Caltrain officials say the agency is in dire need of funding and are considering putting a tax measure on the November ballot.

Empty platforms. Empty trains. Empty coffers.

Caltrain is facing projections of a $71 million deficit over the next financial year, as ridership has plummeted due to the coronavirus pandemic.

Although the railroad received nearly $50 million in relief through the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act, staff said at a board meeting Thursday that Caltrain should prepare for a looming "existential financial crisis."

"The CARES Act funding that has been applied so far has stopped the bleeding," said Soamus Murphy, a Caltrain spokesperson. "It has covered the losses in the near term."

The long term outlook is another story.

Transit systems across the nation are facing decreased demand amid the threat of COVID-19, but Caltrain's existence is more tenuous than most. Unlike BART and Muni, Caltrain is not funded by sales or property taxes. It depends on fares and parking fees to stay afloat.

Following the outbreak of COVID-19 and "shelter-in-place" orders, ticket sales have been down more than 95 percent, according to Derek Hansel, Caltrain's chief financial officer. While the federal funds should last into the summer, Caltrain needs to find another source of cash to avoid shutdown.

"This organization is in big trouble," said Charles Stone, a Caltrain board member, on Thursday.

Once shelter-in-place orders are lifted, revenues won't necessarily bounce back, Caltrain board members said. Some riders will choose to commute to work via car as a means of maintaining social distance. Some workplaces will not open and encourage their employees to continue to telecommute.

Another problem persists: In a time after shelter in place, but before the end of the coronavirus pandemic, maintaining social distance on public transit will be difficult and expensive. Prior to the pandemic, rush hours with more passengers than seats were the norm. Operating trains at low capacity might prevent the spread of disease, but a daily ridership cut of even 25% could result in a $22 million revenue loss, according to Caltrain's projections.

Amid plunging revenues, some might recommend cutting costs. But many of Caltrain's costs are fixed, staff members say, and the CARES Act precludes layoffs or stopping service. The funding aims to keep public employees at work and help Caltrain continue to provide service transporting essential workers.

"We have been able to survive year to year by balancing tight budgets... because our ridership has been strong," said Sebastian Petty, Caltrain's director of policy development. "But as the crisis has really exposed, there has been a structural instability to Caltrain's funding, and with this pandemic, it is upon us now."

In the short term, Caltrain's hopes are pinned on receiving more aid. The CARES Act will distribute a second round of funding, though Caltrain's share has yet to be decided.

In the longer term, board members and staff are considering turning to tax revenue to supplement the farebox, by placing a $108 million measure on the November ballot.

"The status quo is not acceptable," said Jim Hartnett, Caltrain's executive director. "The search for external funds is going to be a very serious effort."

When life gives you orange skies, make orange cocktails

I woke up to an alien planet this week: The sky was orange outside my bedroom window, a scary sort of color that felt like someone set it ablaze. But after coronavirus happened, after quarantine, job losses, strained friendships and a tumultuous political situation — to say the least — my internal reaction was less Chicken Little's "The sky is falling!" and more a sort of numb acceptance of "This is fine."

SAUL SUGARMAN
LAST CALL WITH SAUL

Still, I struggled to do normal things without simply stopping and staring at the sky. I also finally understood why my family's parrots went to sleep once mom threw a bedsheet over their cages: The darkness (the weird sky caused made me feel like it was perpetually too early to start work, even when it was 1 p.m., and I was still in bed.

I wanted to update you with another segment today with how bars are coping in coronavirus, or to have sat down with a mixologist or owner, but — and as iconic as a photo of it may have been — I couldn't envision an interview with that person in night life, in a face mask, with their cocktail, set against an orange sky. Instead, I tried my hand at some orange-themed cocktails: Creamsicle and fruit-flavored ones.

Owing to its bad taste in the moment, I only added one cocktail to this list that uses Fireball. It felt too on-the-nose to omit entirely. The following are recipes I found with some minor tweaks, and some eerie photos of orange cocktails set against an orange sky. I began my project the second day of the haze, and while the color outside had improved, it still had a distinctively Creamsicle glow to it.

Sunset Creamsicle

I found this recipe, and it reminded me of cream sodas I liked as a child, so I took it out to the baseball diamond at Sharon

This version of the classic Tequila Sunrise is served in a highball glass.

Field, in Golden Gate Park.

- 1 ounce vanilla vodka, chilled
- 6 ounces orange soda
- Whipped cream of choice
- Orange sprinkles or maraschino cherry for garnish

Fill a glass with ice, add soda, then vanilla vodka. Top with whipped cream, and garnish with orange sprinkles or a maraschino cherry, and serve immediately.

Tequila Sunrise

This one has a local heritage, made by Bobby Lozoff of The Trident in Sausalito, for The Rolling Stones in the early 1970s. I found this recipe in Esquire, although it is the same many places. I made mine in a double shot glass, but the following recipe from Esquire is made for a highball glass.

- 1.5 ounces tequila of choice
- 3 ounces fresh squeezed orange juice
- 1 teaspoon grenadine

Combine ice, orange juice and tequila, and shake well, then strain into a chilled highball glass. Tip the glass and pour grenadine in at one side, so that it pools at the bottom. Using a spoon, stir very gently to layer the grenadine with the orange juice.

The Sunset Creamsicle is reminiscent of a childhood favorite.

Fireball Cinnamon Whisky is the basis of the fruity Cherry Apple Bomb.

- 1 shot orange juice (optional)
- 3 maraschino cherries for garnish

Fill a cocktail glass with ice, then layer in grenadine. Add on top of that Fireball, and fill the remainder with apple cider and optional orange juice. Float the cocktail with ginger ale, and top with maraschino cherries.

Equity

SFMTA operators often struggle to meet ends meet. Many are people of color, which makes them predisposed to chronic health conditions such as diabetes or hypertension. And their jobs are physically demanding, putting great strain on their wellbeing. Leary recalls realizing that many of the people he was seeing would commute from Sacramento or Manteca just to work an eight-hour shift, and that many didn't have the time to cook a nutritious meal or squeeze in exercise once they got home.

"That was an eye-opener for me," he said.

Lorece Woods-Bowman, 58, has worked at the Woods Division, a Muni bus facility, for six years.

She says she benefited from the program's healthy cooking demonstrations, instruction about exercises that could be done on short breaks and chair massages to relieve pain from sitting all day.

Woods-Bowman, who describes her body as sometimes "screaming out," hasn't received comparable care or stress relief since the program was eliminated.

"In this time we need as much health care as we can get. It should be way down the list of things to cut," she said.

Comprehensive and preventative health care is a luxury for many people, but especially the majority of people who work as Muni operators. They drive hours each way to get to work, and to visit their allotted annual primary care physician they have to take sick leave.

Cutting BackFirst also cuts these people off from life-giving and, at times, lifesaving care.

"I can't afford to take the day off. People don't realize how much it helps to have them at the division, even if you only see them for 15 minutes," Woods-Bowman said of the mobile clinic.

An SFMTA spokesperson said the agency has worked to connect employees with alternative wellness services so they don't lose access to valuable care.

The agency has also repeatedly voiced its commitment to equity when determining where strapped resources will be directed in this moment of budget austerity.

Leary says BackFirst is foundational to that very mission as it seeks to correct the health inequities that face operators, many of whom otherwise lack adequate access to care.

"There are no obstacles to prevent equal access for all workers to the health care information and guidance they need," he wrote in an email. "BackFirst plays an important role in addressing health conditions before they become dire."

Modified version

Once the economic impact of the coronavirus came into view, Leary proposed a watered-down version of the contract approved in March that would have distilled services to the core and offered a cost reduction of 65 percent, or roughly $340,000

"The BackFirst team is committed to the idea that strengthening each employee strengthens the SFMTA as a whole. For our health and safety, we demand that SFMTA continue to fund the BackFirst Wellness Program."

- Letter from Muni workers to SFMTA authorities annually, according to an email he sent the SFMTA director and staff.

Service would focus on high-impact care for frontline workers and especially workers of color, he said, with a focus on preventing comorbid factors known to exacerbate COVID-19 cases.

"This way, BackFirst could do our part and provide only essential wellness services to workers who need them most," Leary wrote. "Instead, BackFirst was suddenly canceled completely."

The SFMTA Board still voted to terminate the entire contract as part of its revised budget passed in June.

In her memo to staff, Ackerman acknowledged this alternative put forth by Leary — though she said it would have cost $500,000 — but said "it still represented a substantial cost to the SFMTA that we could not in good faith proceed forward with."

Scores of employees who say they've benefited from BackFirst testified over email and during virtual SFMTA Board of Directors public meetings in May and June, asking it not to be a casualty of budget cuts.

Paul Lee, who works in the System Safety Division, wrote into the Board of Directors that he received "essential services" from BackFirst care providers, including helping him to walk normally again.

Francis Pang, from the Greens Division Muni Metro Rallyard, sent a petition to leadership in May with almost 100 signatures detailing the impacts the program had provided employees in his unit: lifestyle changes, paths to better blood pressure, reduced stress and physical activity, for example.

"The BackFirst team are committed to the idea that strengthening each employee strengthens the SFMTA as a whole," the attached letter said. "For our health and safety, we demand that SFMTA continue to fund the BackFirst Wellness Program."

Medical professionals, many of whom were part of the team of experts that regularly hosted seminars and workshops for workers, wrote into the SFMTA Board with their full-throated support for its reinstatement.

"The BackFirst services, which are provided in a convenient and supportive setting, are ever more important now, in that they are designed to enhance health and reduce pre-existing conditions that could place our transportation workers at increased risk to COVID-19," Margaret Chesney, professor of medicine at University of California, San Francisco wrote in her letter.

'Pays for itself'

If the argument that BackFirst provides essential health care to frontline workers isn't compelling, Leary says to consider the financial impact its absence could have on SFMTA.

He argues the program pays for itself by preventing work-related injuries and consequently reducing the number of workers compensation claims and lowering health care costs to the agency.

By his calculations, BackFirst would have to prevent two worker's compensation claims per month to cover the original program cost, approved in the most recent request for proposal process, and just one claim per month to pay off the modified version proposed after coronavirus destroyed the agency's budget.

For its part, SFMTA says it recognizes the high value of the program, but ultimately the economics don't come down in favor of the price tag when severely limited resources must be directed to the task of keeping everyone employed and guaranteeing service for San Franciscans.

The first priority is to respond to the safety of employees and customers, an agency spokesperson said, closely followed by efforts to avoid staff layoffs.

Supporters of BackFirst go as far as to say the SFMTA will lose workers because they will become ineligible or unable to work due to untreated health conditions.

One professor from the UCSF School of Medicine said "decades of science" show "cutting effective wellness programs from the MTA workers will lead directly to more sick days, more health care expenditures, more burnout and poorer decision making."

SFMTA leadership

Leary places some of the responsibility on the shoulders of relatively new agency leadership, including Tumlin, Ackerman and CFO Leo Levenson, who haven't had the opportunity to experience the impact of the BackFirst program or spend much time at the Divisions.

"They're at 1 South Van Ness, and not in the Divisions," he said. "They are two different worlds. Sadly, it's the same company, but it's not the same company."

Leary speculated that if the pandemic had struck a year earlier, that C-suite executives would've determined "it's not just popular, but it's also an economically strong program."

SFMTA insists it's not leaving workers without the care provided by BackFirst, and emphasizes it was a decision officials struggled to make.

The agency is working to expand its online tools and resources for Road to Fitness, the program once under BackFirst that provides free workouts, coaching and health indicator tracking.

Much of the information is said to be behind an employee-only portal, which the Examiner couldn't access, but an SFMTA spokesperson said it includes healthy recipes, ideas for how to get movement and blog posts covering topics such as how to respond to community unrest and how to parent during the pandemic.

Group exercise classes have also been made available virtually through the Zuckerberg San Francisco General Wellness Center.

"We recognize you can't replace face-to-face contact, but what we're trying to do now is focus on educating employees so they can better improve their own health using online resources," an SFMTA spokesperson said.

Leary says an online replacement isn't viable.

It's devoid of the years-long trust engendered between patients and providers, it can't provide truly personalized guidance and it fails at basic follow-up to ensure improvement's being seen, an assessment backed resoundingly by the doctors who worked with the program and wrote to the SFMTA Board.

It worries vulnerable workers will lose valuable confidants in the BackFirst providers as well as risk falling off track without a person they're seeing weekly, if not more often, keeping track of progress.

"It's not just the medical service they provide, but how they provide it. They give you anything you need to reach them, even their phone number, and they'll help in any kind of way," Woods-Bowman said. "It was a great thing to have, and a sad thing to lose."

Bring on the map makeover

White supremacists' names being removed from parks and monuments

Before thousands of climbers ascended Mount Whitney every year, a group of Buffalo Soldiers reached the summit in 1903. The first African Americans to climb the mountain also built its first summit trail. Enthralled by the grand scenery, Capt. Charles Young committed to "preserving these mountains just as they are."

Under Young's command, Buffalo Soldiers protected Sequoia National Park's big trees, guarded against poachers and prevented illegal grazing. Sadly, the nation all but forgot them for a century. Yet the same park honored Confederate Gen. Robert Lee, naming a giant sequoia for a traitor who fought to keep such men in slavery.

This is no isolated problem. A California map reads like a badly-flawed history book, full of places named for 19th century white men to the exclusion of nearly everyone else. Lee isn't the only white supremacist to win a geographic honor. Women and people of color are rare, women of color especially so. Indian killers drastically outnumber Indians, and original indigenous names are nearly forgotten.

But here's a piece of good news in a tough year. Following the Minneapolis police killing of George Floyd in May, a revived national civil rights movement has promoted a map makeover, with multiple geographic name changes approved or proposed in California alone.

Jeff Davis Peak near Lake Tahoe, which honored the Confederates' president, in July officially became Da-ek Dow Go-et Mountain. The Washoe Tribe proposed the new name which the federal government approved.

Squaw Valley Alpine Meadows has announced a name change after the ski area acknowledged the racism and sexism of the word "Squaw." The resort plans to announce a new name next year.

California State Parks is considering a new name for Negro Bar in Palsom Lake State Recreation Area, where African American miners prospected for gold in 1850.

Inyo County's Alabama Hills National Scenic Area, named by Confederate sympathizers for a rebel warship, will change names if the nonprofit Friends of the Inyo has its way. The Bureau of Land Management is considering the suggestion.

The name of Portagee Joe Camp-

MOUNTAIN MATTERS

By Matt Johanson

ground in Lone Pine contains an anti-Portuguese slur, claims attorney Allan Berry, who is pursuing a change.

Preceding 2020's upheaval, Squaw Ridge in Mokelumne Wilderness was renamed Ilungalelti Ridge as the Washoe suggested in 2018. After considering the racist writings of Joseph LeConte, Yosemite renamed LeConte Lodge as Yosemite Conservation Heritage Center in 2018. And Santa Monica National Recreation Area renamed a peak as Ballard Mountain, honoring a Black pioneer and replacing an outrageously offensive slur on the map in 2010.

Outdoors enthusiasts should welcome these changes. We who often enjoy public lands know that the outdoor-loving public is much less diverse as our overall population. People of color visit national parks in low numbers; African Americans tally just 1 percent of Yosemite visitors, for example. Taking steps to make more feel welcome hurts no one. It's simply the right thing to do.

However, the process raises some tricky questions. Traitors and slave owners get no defense from me, but what about John Muir? The Sierra Club recently renounced its founder for his racist writings disparaging Blacks and Native Americans. Yet the revered conservationist helped launch the environmental movement and the National Park Service. Should we relitigate every trail, park, mountain and the many schools named for him?

Clearly the map needs more diversity, but what about the likes of James Beckwourth? A Sierra Nevada pass and mountain honor the biracial American from Virginia who survived slavery and moved west. Yet he brags in his autobiography about killing Indians and striking his wife in the head with an ax.

In a world of flawed people, where do we draw the line?

I can't answer that, but I'm certain we have far to go before going too far. So I'm glad to see well-intentioned people trying to promote sensitivity, diversity and inclusion in the outdoors.

Charles Young would be happy too, I suspect. The first African American national park superintendent, Young wrote of a future in which "overworked and weary citizens of the country can find rest" in the outdoors. He and his Buffalo Soldiers helped make that vision a reality.

A century later, Sequoia National Park named one of its magnificent trees for him. Last year, a Colonel Charles Young Memorial Ilihighway followed. This year, the National Park Service removed references to slave-owning Robert Lee from trees in the mountains Young protected. To that, this descendant of Civil War soldiers says, "Fuzzah!"

Matt Johanson authored "Yosemite Adventures: 50 Spectacular Hikes, Climbs and Winter Treks" and "Sierra Summits: A Guide to 50 Peak Experiences in California's Range of Light."

LOCAL NEWS FOR SAN FRANCISCO

Baldwin and Buckley's 1965 debate was magic next to the Trump-Biden travesty

The first presidential debate between President Trump and former vice president Joe Biden, held on Sept. 29 in Cleveland, was a spectacle that lost all semblance to what a debate is or should be. Instead of a respectful marshalling of arguments, the shouting match that ensued was a travesty, an insult to the American people's intelligence, and a mark of disrespect aimed at American traditions and to the very culture of civil discussion.

Buckley's rhetorical flourishes. It's worth noting that both William Buckley and James Baldwin sat quietly, attentively, through the duration of their opponent's arguments; 24 minutes as Baldwin supported the proposition and 28 minutes as Buckley opposed it. It is evident that these were two men who came from different sides of the fence on this as well as other issues.

Those were the days when the debate stage was a platform to test the speaker's ability to think on one's feet and present arguments cogently, logically and coherently. Besides Baldwin and Buckley's insights, persuasive words and practiced delivery, I was inordinately struck by the rules of the debate floor at Cambridge where opportunity, space and time were given to each debater to complete their thoughts, no matter how damaging that said thought was perceived to be.

Not so in the debate we saw this week, which will go down as one of the worst presidential eruptions of all time, tearing apart and dismantling the politics of polite disagreement.

Within minutes of taking the stage, Trump proceeded to undermine, heckle, taunt and insult former vice president Joe Biden, leading Chris Wallace, a Fox News anchor and moderator of the debate, to evince sympathy for Biden. "The country would be better served if we allow both people to speak with fewer interruptions. I'm appealing to you to do that," he chided, looking directly at the pres-

A civil, thoughtful 1965 debate between James Baldwin, left, and William F. Buckley was the antithesis of the square-off between the November 2020 U.S. presidential candidates.

JAYA PADMANABHAN
IN BROWN TYPE

Deeply disturbed after watching the presidential debate debacle, and in an attempt to erase the memory of what I had witnessed, I went through videos of famous debates and came upon one between James Baldwin — the brilliant essayist and novelist — and William F. Buckley — the versatile conservative intellectual and founder of National Review. The debate was held at Cambridge in the United Kingdom in 1965 and dealt with the question of whether the American Dream is achieved at the expense of Blacks in America.

I confess, I've since seen this video multiple times, and each time I'm increasingly enthralled by Baldwin's poetic eloquence and ident. "What about him?" Trump asked, like a 5-year-old pointing fingers, as he gestured at Biden, and Wallace was forced to respond honestly, "Frankly, you've been doing more interrupting."

Many high school and college debate clubs offer a "Do Not" list for new debaters and most of them mention "do not interrupt," "do not condescend" and "do not personally attack," all three of which were in full evidence and given full throttle, particularly by President Trump.

I picked the Baldwin-Buckley debate, despite the different format (and there being less at stake for the two debaters), since many of the arguments the two well-known speakers made in 1965 are the same arguments that are being made today by our opposing presidential candidates, especially on the charged and polarizing topics of racial tension and law enforcement.

Early on during the debate, Baldwin pointed out that the question of whether the American Dream is at the expense of the Black community is "hideously loaded" and the response can only come from an individual's sense of reality, and the particular assumptions one carries to give credence to that reality. He went on to give an example of the Alabama sheriff "who really does believe when he's facing a [Black] boy or girl, that this woman, this man, this child must be insane to attack the system to which he owes his entire identity. According to this person, the proposition that we're trying to discuss here tonight does not exist." The parallel I can draw in today's troubled times is that of a player kneeling during the national anthem. Is he disrespecting the flag, which forms part of his identity, or is he expressing his trauma at the continuing violence meted out to his brothers and sisters?

Most famous debates leave you with memorable moments that act like sticky-note reminders. I recall the presidential debate in 1984, when Ronald Reagan was questioned about being the oldest president in history. "I want you to know that I will not make age an issue of this campaign. I am not going to exploit for political purposes my opponent's youth and inexperience," he retorted, straight-faced, with superb timing, evoking immediate laughter from the audience and his opponent. It was a time when disagreement was not so venomous.

There are many thought-provoking statements made during the Baldwin-Buckley debate. Notable among them is Baldwin's asseveration, "And I picked the cotton, and I carried it to market, and I built the railroads under someone else's whip, for nothing." There is pin-drop silence as the scope of that remark sinks in with each emphatic "I".

Of course, neither Biden nor Trump are Baldwin or Buckley, and so the only takeaway from their debate this week will be the frustrated exclamation Biden used to dismiss Trump's heckling. This one phrase will now be entered into the annals of our history books as being uttered by our septuagenarian white dude to another, both fighting to be the leader of the United States of America for the next four years: "Will you shut up, man?"

據路透社報導，矽谷的創新企業一直在緩慢地生產有用的新工具，幫助像溫納克(Dave Winnacker)這樣的消防員撲滅每年僅加州天空的致命山火。

消防員負責人員溫納克曾帶領一個由2017年在那那利山火中受傷的(Sonoma Valley)地產商組成的火。他創始了名為「火災撲滅」的創業公司，旨在幫助消防員在撲滅山火時使用更有效的工具。

溫納克正在使用的一項技術是由他的公司Zondawer創建的。該平台利用地面測繪數據、警局傳感器和衛星數據，使消防員能夠在火災發生前預測火災的蔓延。它於8月30日在加州，當時消防員正在撲滅一場由山火引發的山火。

Sing Tao Daily reaches more than all others combined

Sing Tao Daily remains the San Francisco Bay Area's most effective newspaper buy for the Chinese market, according to two independent research projects.

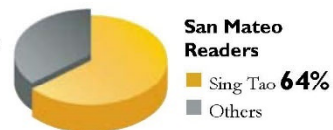

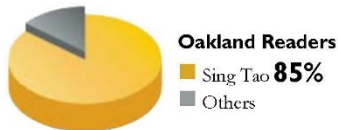

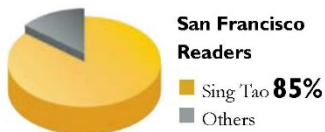

In ISA's research in 10 Northern California counties, 51 percent named Sing Tao Daily as their newspaper of preference. The remaining 49 percent named one of other five newspapers.

CCMR research in the five Bay Area counties where most Northern California Chinese live—San Francisco, Alameda, Contra Costa, Santa Clara and San Mateo—revealed that 57 percent of Chinese newspaper readers choose Sing Tao Daily.

85 percent penetration in San Francisco

For San Francisco, media buyers targeting Chinese residents really have only one choice. Sing Tao Daily is read by 85 percent of those who read Chinese newspapers. This was confirmed by CCMR.

Number one in Oakland, San Mateo Counties

Like San Francisco, Oakland and San Mateo Counties were among the first areas to be settled by Chinese immigrants and have large Chinese populations.

Also like San Francisco, Sing Tao Daily is the unquestioned leader among Chinese dailies. In Oakland, 85 percent of Chinese newspaper readers choose Sing Tao Daily. In San Mateo, the figure is 64 percent. All figures confirmed by CCMR.

más del 10 por ciento en los últimos 50 a 60 años.

En febrero, Wilcox, profesor de sociología de la Universidad de Virginia, pronunció una declaración ante el Comité Económico Conjunto, "La estabilidad familiar y el sueño americano", en la que abordó las preocupaciones sobre la creciente tendencia de las parejas que cohabitan.

"Los niños nacidos de parejas que cohabitan tienen casi el doble de probabilidades de ver a sus padres separarse, en comparación con los niños nacidos de parejas casadas, incluso después de controlar los factores sociodemográficos confusos, como la educación de los padres", dijo Wilcox en su declaración.

Existe un vínculo directo entre la estabilidad de un hogar y la tasa de éxito de un niño, explicó Wilcox. Los niños criados en un hogar monoparental tienen al me-ban casadas en la década de 1960, pero para 2019, había caído a solo el 24 por ciento.

La disparidad entre los bebés blancos y negros nacidos de madres solteras se duplicó entre 1960 y 2018, según el informe del comité conjunto. El veintinueve por ciento de los niños blancos nacieron de madres solteras en 2018, mientras que el 70 por ciento de los niños negros nacen de madres solteras. En 1960, sólo el 1 por ciento de los bebés blancos y alrededor del 20 por ciento de los bebés negros nacieron de madres solteras.

Los expertos citan la amplia expansión de los programas de asistencia social como parte de la razón de la disminución de la tasa de matrimonios, especialmente entre los afroamericanos. El miedo a perder Medicaid, cupones de alimentos y programas de asistencia social en efectivo desalienta el matrimonio, dijo Wilcox.

La mayoría de los programas de asistencia social "penalizan el matrimonio", coincide el informe del Comité Económico Conjunto.

El comité sacó cuatro conclusiones con respecto a las formas en que se puede fomentar la estabilidad del matrimonio y la familia en la sociedad civil:

-"La 'mensajería', como a través de campañas en los medios, puede tener efectos positivos en la actividad social. Los anuncios que explican las consecuencias de los embarazos en la adolescencia podrían alterar el comportamiento sexual de los jóvenes, por ejemplo.

-"Los 'programas sociales' que ofrecen educación y desarrollo de habilidades sobre cómo "construir y mantener matrimonios saludables" también pueden fortalecer a las familias de distintos niveles socioeconómicos.

-"Los 'incentivos financieros' reducirían las sanciones por matrimonio y desalentarían la metastabilidad familiar, proporcionando beneficios fiscales adicionales para las parejas casadas y fortaleciendo la aplicación de la manutención de los hijos".

-"Otras políticas" que el comité recomendó para aumentar la estabilidad familiar incluyen "mejorar las perspectivas profesionales de los estadounidenses más jóvenes, especialmente los hombres jóvenes", o incluso examinar los efectos de la pornografía en las relaciones de pareja adulta.

El futuro de un joven no está necesariamente condenado al fracaso debido a la falta de estructura familiar. Sin embargo, los niños criados por un padre soltero enfrentan una mayor adversidad en comparación con los niños criados en un hogar feliz de dos padres, concluye el informe del Proyecto de Capital Social.

Unlabeled, unnamed NOMOST, legislation to fall shame the packaged food industry and its customers, passed the Mexican Congress by a hefty - anything but a Weight Watchers - margin.

Accordingly, as of October 1 the packaging in which M&M's and Marmits are sold will be illegal in a country where guns are generally illegal and selling stolen or smuggled gasoline is universally illegal, both iconic sweets gloriously

How it will work out this time around is speculative. I foresee consumers snipping the shelves of their favorite packaged foods, cartels adding M&M's and Marmits to their product lines, and tourists from abroad being searched by zealous customs officials, but I hope the movement stops short of turning Mexico into the world's thinnest nation. el que el comité bancario del Senado de EE.UU. Está celebrando audiencias es la misma propuesta de dólar digital de la que hablé en mi podcast sobre The Greatest Depression en marzo pasado. Como recordara, el Foro Económico Mundial está promoviendo el Proyecto del Dólar Digital (sorpresa, sorpresa) y vendido al público a través del viejo truco de la Guerra Fría de "los chinos lo están haciendo, así que nosotros también tenemos que hacerlo".

Específicamente, como explicaron los expertos globalistas en su artículo de opinión del Wall Street Journal sobre la idea el año pasado: "Proponemos un dólar digital, un protocolo de cadena de bloques aprobado por el gobierno, creado y mantenido por un grupo no gubernamental independiente pero administrado por bancos y otras organizaciones de pago confiables. cuatro hijos de 41 años, va a trabajar nerviosamente porque su esposa, dice, no dijo nada sobre el COVID-19 hasta hace unos días. "Hasta hace poco no nos daban ninguna orientación pero muchos tomábamos nuestras propias medidas, como comprar gel para traer y hacer nuestras propias máscaras porque los jefes no nos las daban", explicó Ramos. Señaló que en su empacadora el distanciamiento social era casi imposible. "En la zona donde trabajo hay cuatro empacadores, dos cajeros y de 8 a 10 conductores en un espacio reducido, olvidate de los dos metros. Hay tres pieles como máximo entre una persona y otra".

Armando Elenes, secretario tesoro de United Farm Workers, dijo que el 77 por ciento de los trabajadores en una encuesta reciente informaron que los empleadores no habían cambiado las prácticas laborales ni ofrecieron información sobre la pandemia.

"Ahora a muchos se les dice que vayan a trabajar con una máscara, es como decirle a alguien que tiene que cavar hoyos en el suelo que venga con su propia pala. Si mandan equipos para trabajar, deben proporcionarlos", dijo Elenes, quien señaló que hay muchas industrias que están mejorando sus prácticas. Las regulaciones de Cal OSHA detallan un programa de prevención y seguridad que todos los empleadores de la industria agrícola deben implementar, incluida la capacitación de los trabajadores y la información sobre qué es COVID-19 y cómo se propaga, cómo prevenirlo y cuáles son los síntomas.

Los empleadores deben implementar medidas de seguridad en la granja y proporcionar limpiadores y desinfectantes y unidades de lavado de manos, así como medidas para aumentar la distancia física.

Sin embargo, los trabajadores agrícolas, sindicalistas y activistas de la salud señalan que esto no se ha aplicado de manera constante. "El programa de trabajadores agrícolas de Asistencia Legal Rural de California (CRLA) recibe numerosas llamadas de trabajadores", dice Estrella M. Cisneros, directora regional del programa. "Informan que muchas empresas no han tomado ninguna medida".

"Están en una situación difícil", agregó Cisneros. "Si trabajan pueden exponerse y si no trabajan no tienen ingresos ni ayuda de ningún tipo".

Algunos trabajadores agrícolas también informan que los capacitadores de cuadrilla difunden información errónea y dicen que el virus no es real. Los más preocupados son los que trabajan en plantas empacadoras de carne o verduras, ya que trabajan en interiores y en ambientes con aire acondicionado, considerados mucho más peligrosos que trabajar al sol y al aire libre, agregó Cisneros.

Un nuevo informe de la Iniciativa de Investigación de Capacidad Cívica (CCRI) de la Universidad de California en Merced, estima que el 42 por ciento de los 250,000 trabajadores agrícolas en el Valle de San Joaquín son

Armando Elenes, secretary-treasurer of the United Farm Workers, said 77 percent of workers in a recent survey reported that employers had not changed work practices or offered information on the pandemic.

"Now many are being told to go to work with a mask on, it's like telling someone who has to dig holes in the ground to come with their own shovel. If you demand equipment to work, you must provide it," said Elenes, who noted that there are individual farms that are improving their practices.

Cal OSHA regulations detail a prevention and safety program that all employers in the agricultural industry are required to implement, including worker training and information about what COVID-19 is and how it is spread, how to prevent it and what the symptoms are.

Employers are required to implement on-farm safety measures and provide cleaners and disinfectants and hand washing units as well as measures to increase physical distance.

However, farm workers, trade unions and health activists point out this has not been consistently enforced.

"The California Rural Legal Assistance (CRLA) farmworker program receives numerous calls from workers," says Estrella M. Cisneros, regional director of the program. "They report that many companies have not taken any action."

"They're in a difficult situation," Cisneros added. "If they work they can expose themselves and if they don't work they have no income or help of any kind."

Some farm workers also report that foreman or crew leaders spread misinformation and say the virus is not real. Most worried are those who work in meat or vegetable packing plants, since they work indoors and in air-conditioned environments, considered much more dangerous than working in the sun and outdoors, Cisneros added.

A new report by the Civic Capacity Research Initiative (CCRI) at University of California in Merced, estimates that 42% of the 250,000 farm workers in the San Joaquin Valley are undocumented. At least 112,000 won't receive the En los dos segundos que tardas en cruzar la calle, una gran pantalla LED sobre la calle se ilumina con tu foto y tu nombre. Dos segundos después de eso, sientes un zumbido en su bolsillo. Sacando su teléfono, encuentra un mensaje de su banco informándole que ha sido multado por cruzar imprudentemente y que su puntaje de crédito social se ha reducido.

La resolución señala que los hispanoamericanos contribuyen con más de $ 1.7 billones a la economía de los Estados Unidos, más que el PIB de todas las naciones del mundo, excepto las de las 17 principales. Los hispanoamericanos sirven en todas las ramas de las fuerzas armadas y han luchado con valentía en todas las guerras de la historia de los Estados Unidos. A partir de 2019, hay más de 200,000 miembros hispanos en servicio activo de las Fuerzas Armadas, y había aproximadamente 1,200,000 veteranos hispanos de las Fuerzas Armadas, incluidas 136,000 latinas. Sesenta hispanoamericanos han recibido la Medalla de Honor del Congreso, el premio más alto al valor en la acción contra una fuerza enemiga que se puede otorgar a un individuo que sirve en las Fuerzas Armadas de los Estados Unidos.

Guatemala reabre sus fronteras tras 6 meses de cierre de Covid

Los viajeros deben presentar una prueba de coronavirus negativa para ingresar al país

Guatemala reabrió este viernes sus fronteras con México, El Salvador, Honduras y Belice luego de seis meses de cierre por la pandemia del coronavirus. También se reabrió el Aeropuerto Internacional La Aurora de la Ciudad de Guatemala.

La noticia llega el mismo día que el presidente de Guatemala, Alejandro Giammattei, anunció que dio positivo por Covid-19 y permanecerá en cuarentena.

El Ministerio de Salud ha implementado protocolos de salud para los viajeros a quienes se les permitirá ingresar al país si pueden mostrar a los funcionarios en las fronteras sanitarias una prueba de coronavirus negativa realizada en las últimas 72 horas.

Los viajeros que lleguen al aeropuerto de La Aurora y no puedan proporcionar resultados recientes negativos de las pruebas se someterán a una cuarentena obligatoria de 14 días supervisada por las autoridades de los Ministerios de Salud Pública y Asistencia Social.

mostly passed H.R. 2420, the National Museum of the American Latino Act. H.R. 2420 would establish a Smithsonian National Museum of the American Latino on the National Mall dedicated to honoring the contributions of American Latinos throughout U.S. history.

The resolution notes that Hispanic-Americans contribute more than $1.7 trillion to the United States economy; more than the GDP of all but the top 17 nations in the world.

Hispanic-Americans serve in all branches of the military and have bravely fought in every war in the history of the United States. As of 2019, there are more than 200,000 Hispanic active duty service members of the Armed Forces, and there were approximately 1,200,000 Hispanic veterans of the Armed Forces, including 136,000 Latinas. Sixty Hispanic-Americans have received the Congressional Medal of Honor, the highest award for valor in action against an enemy force that can be bestowed on an individual serving in the Armed Forces of the United States.

Guatemala re-opens its borders after 6-month Covid closure

Travelers must show a negative coronavirus test to enter the country

Guatemala reopened its borders with Mexico, El Salvador, Honduras and Belize on Friday after six months of closure due to the coronavirus pandemic. La Aurora International Airport in Guatemala City was also reopened.

The news comes on the same day that Guatemala President Alejandro Giammattei announced that he has tested positive for Covid-19 and will remain in quarantine.

The Ministry of Health has implemented health protocols for travelers who will be allowed to enter the country if they can show officials at land borders a negative coronavirus test conducted within the past 72 hours. Travelers arriving at the La Aurora airport who cannot provide recent, negative test results will undergo a mandatory 14-day quarantine supervised by authorities from the Ministries of Public Health and Social Assistance.

El fiscal general también acusó a Zerón de sustraer más de mil millones de pesos (US $44.3 millones al tipo de cambio actual) del presupuesto de la FGR, antecesora de la FGR. "El año pasado, cuando iniciamos esta investigación y descubrimos este enorme desfalco, este individuo huyó del país", dijo Gertz Manero, y agregó que luego de que las autoridades obtuvieron una orden de arresto, prevencieron una solicitud de extradición ante las autoridades canadienses. "Pero inmediatamente huyó a Israel, un país al que se le ha pedido su apoyo total. ... Sus autoridades conocen muy bien lo que significan las violaciones de derechos humanos y las responsabilidades que [deben enfrentar] verdugos y torturadores", dijo. Gertz Manero afirmó que el gobierno anterior estaba "profundamente infiltrado por el crimen y la corrupción" y que Murillo Karam estuvo involucrado en el encubrimiento del caso Ayotzinapa. Góñez dijo que Zerón debe enfrentar la justicia

y revelar por qué hizo lo que hizo. Dijo que se han dictado un total de 70 órdenes de arresto en relación con la desaparición de los estudiantes. Un oficial de la Policía Federal ya está deteniendo miembros de Guerrero Luidos también están detenidos, incluidos los presuntos líderes José Ángel "El Mochomo" Casarrubias Salgado y su hermano Sidronio Casarrubias Salgado. El exalcalde de Iztapalapa José Luis Ahuaca y su esposa, María de los Angeles Pineda Villa, quienes han sido acusados de ser los autores intelectuales del secuestro de los estudiantes y cómplices de Guerrero Luidos, también esperan juicio en prisión, al igual que al menos dos agentes de seguridad municipales, funcionarios.

A 2012 San Francisco Latino Heritage Arts Award recipient and raised in San Francisco's Mission District amidst an extended family of Puerto Rican musicians, Santos has been at the center of the Bay Area's latin music scene for over forty five years. He served on the Smithsonian Institution's Latin Jazz Advisory Committee and has played an essential role in expanding Latin jazz's rhythmic lexicon beyond the traditional Cuban grooves. He has produced a steady stream of critically-acclaimed, peer-respected recordings on his Machete Records label since 1984 and has travelled the world as a teacher and lecturer since the mid-eighties. Known for his innovative use of traditional forms and instruments in combination with contemporary music, John has performed and/or recorded with masters such as Tito Puente, Dizzy Gillespie, Max Roach, Cachao, Eddie Palmieri, James Moody, Omar Sosa, McCoy Tyner, Giovanni Hidalgo, and Bebo Valdés. He is faculty at the California Jazz Conservatory, SF State University, College of San Mateo and Jazz Camp West and is an Advisory Board member of Oakland Jazz, Living Jazz, and the Afro-Latin Jazz Alliance (NY), and a Trustee of SFAJAZZ.
